It looks like I'm not the only one who sees you delving into that liberal style of "attack someone's personality because you can't argue with their statements."

Have fun doing that, as I said before I have nothing to do with you and I do not like you. I refuse to read that long-winded tirade about things you know nothing about... Quote:When you attack him as I have said before you attack us all at the pits, we are a close nit bunch, that is something you never understood or are you capable of!

This statement cinches the notion that you know absolutely nothing about me, which makes my refusal to read the rest of that garbage all the more justified.
