Then why did you have to post the above in the first place? It doesn't make much sense that you talk about those commands through the majority of the post and then address something completely different with a pronoun when you haven't talked about it in the post at all.

You also told me numerous times it would be available after you figure out how to do something involving player names.