Cpo64...Best thing about fighting your self is that you come out victorious.

Actually, to burst everyone's bubble about this statement. You can loose a civil war. If the government that was in control during a civil war is ousted/removed or surrenders, the country then looses the war.

Reason for this logic: A new form of government = a new country, even if it keeps its name. A civil war is more of a fight against a government. If you remove the government, the "Old" country lost and so do all of its supporters.
