I was thinking it might be time to get rid of the standard Ignore Icon, so I whipped up a couple that should match the site pretty well.

- Classic Button
- Mute
- Disabled
- Crossed out
- Decapitated

You're welcome to use any of them if you like.

decapitated doesn't get the message across well enough and is very un-appealing to newcomers of the forum. I'd go with the classic button style.

It gets the message across fine.

EX: When Alkaline was here, I would have looooved to decapitate him.

Nobody like mine and after I put a whole 5 minutes into butchering the original forum styled icon.

Size wise or linked wise? If its size related, I made the icon the same size as the rest. If its link related here's a direct link to the image:
