Here comes the super people!

But, I still worry about the baby's future! I wonder if he'll ever be able to play with regular toys without breaking them. :twisted:

Hmm I wonder what the olympic committee would say about that one...

Today people need more efficient brain instead of muscle though.

Interesting.

I wonder what kind of side effects you could have from something like that.

Maybe your body would form improperly because of it and if you suddenly stopped using a drug developed from this would all your muscles just decay again or would it stay that way

I heard this on the Tonight Show Thursday.....Leno said something to the effect of "Go figure, a genetically enhanced baby in Germany, let me guess, he has blonde hair and blue eyes also?!" It was something similiar to that, but damn it was funny.
