With the upcoming release of version 0.993b, a new website design is on the way with it. Just like any other site, we need a banner to place at the top. Well we've decided to take this one to the public. We want you to design the best banner you can within the next 7 days. The winning banner will become the official new banner for the RenAlert site, and stay as long as we feel it should be there(which will most likely be as long as we keep the theme).

There are a few rules we'd like you to follow though:

-You must have your banner entered no later then Tuesday the 13th of next week. Anything not in by that date will not be accepted.
-It must look professional. We will not put a blurry, faded banner made in MS Paint at the top of our website. Use a real program(ie: Photoshop, ect..), and put real effort into this. Keep them at the highest quality possible
-The banner must be 1003x120 pixels. No bigger, no smaller.
-The game title should be the main focus, do not use "RenAlert," use the full game title "Command & Conquer: Renegade Alert."
-Something from both teams, Allied and Soviet must be in the banner.

Failure to meet these requirements will disqualify your banner from the competition. If you win, people will be staring at your banner everytime they load the site. We're looking for perfection and nothing less.

Good luck to all of you, anyone who wishes to participate should start now.

Upload your banner to this thread:
http://dynamic6.gamespy.com/~renalert/foru...t=ST&f=8&t=2891

Also, here are some logos you may use in your banner. These are official Renegade Alert logos: Download here.

Lets say sombody makes the best banner, do they get an award?

They get the honor of having their banner used.

Subject: Renegade Alert Banner Competition
Posted by Renx on Tue, 06 Jul 2004 22:11:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

z310Lets say sombody makes the best banner, do they get an award?

"164152 non-unique hits"

That's so far. The many people and more will see the winning banner everytime they view the site.

Subject: Renegade Alert Banner Competition
Posted by spreegem on Wed, 07 Jul 2004 22:16:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Many people will see the banner, but how will they know who created it unless the person puts their name in the banner or soemthin? I bet 90% of the people that go there don't even bother to find out who worked on what for the mod, or the site, or anything for that matter. Also why will it be 1003 px wide? Won't that stretch peoples browser windows and cause them to have to scroll if they have their resolution as 800x600?

Subject: Renegade Alert Banner Competition
Posted by Renx on Wed, 07 Jul 2004 23:11:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

spreegemMany people will see the banner, but how will they know who created it unless the person puts their name in the banner or soemthin? I bet 90% of the people that go there don't even bother to find out who worked on what for the mod, or the site, or anything for that matter. Also why will it be 1003 px wide? Won't that stretch peoples browser windows and cause them to have to scroll if they have their resolution as 800x600?

Oh well, everyone still likes to have their work shown off.

And it has to be that size to fit into the new design.

Subject: Renegade Alert Banner Competition
Posted by spreegem on Wed, 07 Jul 2004 23:15:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

NeoXThe site was designed for 1024x768.

Ohh, I normally design things for 800x600 so it would work for all monitor resolutions, except when your at school, and the resolution is 640x480. At least it's like that at my school.