STFU ACF, quit repeating your words and move onto something else, nobody cares anymore what you think.
Your Old News.

"ACF," there's another one to add the The List of Wrong Acronyms...

I don't get people like you... Saying "nobody cares what you think" as if you speak for everyone, then bothering to tell me that you think no one cares about what I think... Isn't that sort of contradictive?

He posted it on purpose to bring down reborn even further. (i want no quote to that as I know what would be said)
Not just because he thought it was funny.

The Construction Yard looks more like rolled steel with a base of concrete than anything in Reborn does. Additionally, the Advanced Power Plant looks like it was made of red brick with metal trimming.

I can't believe you're that stupid as to be unable to tell the difference between plastic and steel. Plastic has a dull property to it unless it was painted or newly created. Everything Retardin does looks like plastic or has some shit texture applied over it.

Because you came in here, whined and complained that I posted this, then you have said several times that "no one cares" while still caring yourself.

Do yourself a favor and start saying more intelligent things, or at least spend more than five seconds thinking out a reply...

Yeah, because we all know boxes make circular shapes on a Construction Yard!!

Go take up your problems with the buildings to EA, or former Red Alert development team members. Power Plants were blocky, both variants. Everything on the Construction Yard except for the crane assembly and bay area was blocky, because that's what buildings look like you fucking retards, most buildings in C&C and reality are constructed from box shapes!
