YOUR SIG SUCKS!

That first one is over 500kb, and I'm sure those other two are pretty close in size (didn't want to wait to see their size)

Please change it.

Big deal. The point of the post isn't that I can't get support. Hell, I can get better support here.

The point is that Westwood gets a generic "Cannot be displayed because of etc...."

They can't even specify why people can't access the link. They just give a generic answer. Sad to see such great potential linked to a generic dead link explanation.

Case in point:

The page you have requested could not be found on our web server. This could be due to one of the following reasons:

The game or service is no longer supported.
The referring website has not updated their link.
There is an error with our webpage which prevents information from being displayed.

You incorrectly typed a URL.
