I love it, the firefox pop-up worker is the best i've ever seen, however it almost works too well. I regularly recieve PM"s from people telling me im right and they agree on something or im an asshole blah blah blah on these forums and others, and i never get the little pop up for them. So i see them 3 weeks later when i relize hmm mabey i shoudl check that there PM box and then i have like 15 pm's.

SO is there anyway i can disable it only on some sites?

Huh, yeah, it usually warns you when it blocks a pop-up, and at the same time asks you if you want to "allow pop-ups for that website", pretty much like the Google toolbar for IE.

If that only appears, it would be good to update your browser. The latest version is 1.0.

When a Popup is blocked, I always get an extra menu Bar warning that a popup is blocked.
