So little damage, it isn't worth the effort of scrolling your mouse to switch frmo remotes to proxy mine.

It will but it will be very little. The enemy will recieve the regular amount of damage, but the MCT will only recieve the "splash" which will be next to nothing.

small amount of damage, you're always better off using your proxies to cover the door to kill (or at least delay) enemy engineers who are trying to defuse your timers.

I disagree. I prefer throwing them on the ceiling. That way, if they jump on your head, they go BOOM. You should try it sometime.
