Yes, there are free servers. Host your own server from your computer. The only bad side is that you'll have to upgrade to a nice big connection ( > 2M at least for decent servers), and you'd have to leave your computer for a long time, you wouldnt be able to use it for anything else. Or your internet connection for that matter... unless you want to lag it all out ^_^

Sorry but that was very funny....

I host from my own home, I have a spare computer and a high speed DSL connection. The only problem is your server may have a lot of epeople getting the negotiating post with server error.

My connection is 3.0MB/800Kb up/down respectively. With that I can do up to 14.

or you can rent from one of those already mentioned providers which I do aswell. Servermatrix owns Creed3020I have a ... high speed DSL connection.

My connection is 3.0MB/800Kb up/down respectively. With that I can do up to 14.You must be paying through your nose to get that much upload bandwidth on your DSL line...

I have 3.0MB/1024Kb up/down, so I can actually host around 16 players. Trick is, I'm not paying through my nose for that speed.

First thing you need to do is find the search button on your browser, then type in multiplayer internet servers, then spend a couple of hours sorting the 15,000 pages there for the best price and your set =)
