http://wwww.renegadeforums.com Type that into your browser, I did it by accident when I typed to fast, but it brought me to BHS. . . Does it happen to anyone else? Also, why does it do that?

http://cowmisfitsucks.renegadeforums.com/ does the same thing too. Apparently anything stuck as a subdomain will send you to BHS.

It's probably because it's pointing to the same IP as BHS

I don't think that's funny, actually, I mean, it's actually great that it redirects back...

The reason for this is that they use a broken link re-direct script. I can get one through my free host even. What it does is just that, type in a broken link such as blah.renegadeforums.com and it re-directs you to these pages. Pretty nifty script.

No, that's not the reason at all. I use Apache's VirtualHost directive which allows multiple domains to be hosted on a single IP. I set BHS as the default home page because of a RenGuard bug we were trying to fix with the CP1 download a long time ago.

Same thing for n00bstories.com. I did a google search once and it brought up a link that started as http://blazers.ass.n00bstories.com
