A few of you have massive signatures now (Sir Pheonixx, etc) due to the font size.

Just a little reminder to adjust them ASAP, it certainly does cram up the threads.

These forums go by general size (Where 1 is tiny, 2 is small, 3 is normal, etc.), while the older forums went by pixels/point, (Where 12 is 12 px/pt, etc.), so text made in the old forums to be small would use 8 or 9 px/pt, which in these forums would be huge.

Personally, I'd like to see the avatar's capped at a much smaller size. No one needs to have an avatar that takes up a solid 7-8 lines by itself.

If the avatars were located off the the side and didn't affect the size of the message per poster, it wouldn't be a problem.

One of the adjustments I will be making will be to move to the more familiar left-side avatar/info instead of the top.

Couldn't you make it optional like a setting in the profile, I kinda like it this way

Yeah, put an option in to choose between having the user info on the side, or on the top of a post.

Can you have the topic review below the reply area, show the posts in newest to oldest like it's supposed to.

Have all of the smilies show up instead of just some and having to go to a popup to see the rest. It would take an extra line to have all of them there, but it won't take up any extra room, if you take the message icons and place them all on one line next to "no icon", there should be plenty of room on that line.

Up the maximum files per message to 5 instead of 1, so people won't have to post several replies if they have more than 1 image to post.

DJM wrote on Fri, 03 June 2005 08:57 please, just saying do this and do that wont get it done. Uh... I could do some of it myself, but since I obviously don't have any kind of access, etc., I can only make suggestions.
