By chance was this a choice as he was the web master, a choice of characteristics that made him appropriate for the job, a friendship, or a mix of them and if so which was primary? Just curious about your standards.

Oh and congratulations lefthanded.

My choice for L3f7y was based on the fact that he's a well-respected community webmaster. He has tons of experience moderating forums. Most of you should know that if friendship were my basis for picking moderators, the staff list here would be very different indeed.

You guys have been very respectful and great in keeping these forums "clean". For that, I thank you.

I think you can mainly put that down to the amount of respect people have for you and Crimson...

There again there's always the odd un-honorable n00b comes along...

Perhaps there finding it hard to get to the forums I heard n00bs don't do to well with change.
