You don't have to pay to use GameSpy Arcade.

For people that didn't buy the game by itself and bought it in a game pack,you do have to pay to use GSA.I myself would have to pay to use it.

lol, you don't pay to use GSA...

1) register a FREE account on www.gamespy.com

2) download GSA from http://www.gamespyarcade.com/download/ (the basic -ad supported version)

3) install GSA

4) login with username and password from 1)

you only need to pay for the non-adverts premium version

There is free version of gamespy arcade I thought that you could just download and install. But they also try, to get you to buy the full GSA version, wich costs money. You don't need the full version.

So it doesn't matter if you bought the game or the gamepack.

they deliberatly make it hard to find the free version so you think you need to pay for it, and end up forking out money to them.. it's called being a business

I think there's gamespy3d that works just fine as well, just no chat interface. Which is probably for the best

I went to the website and found the download to the free version in 12 seconds.

It took me about a minute and a half. My computer was running slow, and I got distracted by all the random game graphics they throw up.
