This might be a stupid question. But how do people join a server and not count as players.

You can't kick them by ip or nickname. And the server was maxed at 3 players and there was 4 people with him in it.

Thanks for any help

There was'nt 4 players in the game at the time but there was ealier.

From your screenshot, I don't see any indication of a fourth player, or even a third one.

He was the one doing it. And i swear there was 4 people in the game when it was maxT at 3 players.

I took a picture in game than right away i pasted it into MSPaint than i took another Screenshot with the fds Window over MSPaint.

^Get that program. You can use it in games, and you don't have to use MS Paint. Very handy.

But if you take a SS in game, it's automatically saved in your data folder...

That looks like a simple glitch on your client.. From what I've heard, a lot of times people will leave, but on your client it will show them as still there, and most of the time other players don't see them, but you do.

I've never experienced this myself, I've just seen it happen to people.

Possibly. I don't think he was ingame because i never saw him and it was M13. But he called me an idiot. That was while there was 4 people in the game.Quote:

Irfanview is less than 1MB without any Plugins.

Hoversnap! is only at version .8, therefor it's got alot of room for improvement. And, er, that's the last leg of my arguement...

Edit: Version .8, not .88.

CP1 and CP2 give you the option of in-game screenshots being saved as .PNG instead of .TGA

Quit killing my arguements! Besides, that one's been dead for a short while now. Though that is nice to know...
