Found this screenie on the net.

First i thought it was a blood puff, but it didnt look right, looks like the Laser rifle had a muzzle flare, but the question is where did it go???? The rifle and its textures is that of the final version of renegade.

I think you can see this flash when you shoot peoples bodies with one of the SSAOW versions. It might be easy to add but the FPS rate would drop.

FPS drop? i doubt it would be that great a drop, renegade isnt a demanding game, certainly wasent on my olld 64mb card, and its certainly not on my new 256mb card

Might it just be a lucky screencap?  Maybe there is a flash, but it's too quick for someone to see. Or they edited it into the picture afterwards.

People constantly make the mistake that older games will always run extremely fast on newer computers no matter what.  This isn't true, because older game engines use older methods to get things done and are not optimized for all of the super fast computer parts you see today.

I think the laser rifle has always had a flash, at least in SP.

I see it when I shoot people, but I do play in a Dragonade (SSAOW) server most of the time.  I do remember seeing it in regular Renegade though; maybe it's not visible on anything less than full detail graphics.

yeah your right, it is there, it just has such a short duration that you dont notice it much unless you look for it.
Its present both in single and multiplayer, only in 1st person view mode thou.

Ingame screenie i took

That flash is so terrible. If I used first person on it the flash would give me seizures or something.
