Would anyone be willing do animate a very complex bridge I made so it will blow up? I tried a tutorial on it but I dont think im ready to learn it all I tried but its not a very easy to understand tutorial. And it covers it a different way . So if anyone out there can animate this bridge for me I would like it very much . Please help. leave ur msn or email if u want to help and I will send it to you. Thanks.

show a pic of the bridge first
The model makes a huge difference as most of the time it would be best to have it fully in mind how the destroying parts will be , before you even have built your model. That is unless you want to detach it all in chunks and have peices fly off etc.

I personally can't do anything more then make the animation, exporting is another story, but im sure if you have a picture to present, finding help will come alot faster lol.

The animation I would really really want is to have it like break in half and the point it breaks to go down to the ground and stops... Once that goes down the supports in the middle will collapse onto it and than the strings that are attached the supports will snap and possibly make a little bend and than fall. Once its blown up i dont want people to be able to drive on it. But it it repairable...I dont think you need really much animation on that mabey have the bridge main walk way were the vehicles ride on pull back up while u repair and than the rest just appears there. Picky but I dont want a very tacky looking thing.
