I don't think a green sky is possible without doing some hacking, you can't do it with the tools provided to us. Unless you create some sorta dome over the player that has a green tint to it... but that wouldn't work very well.

No that is normal sky, Renegade's engine adds or subtracts two layers of this to make the different cloud darkness settings.

Meh, im feeling referred to...

And indeed, it was just done by editing cloudlayer.dds
no pro uberhax involved

I opened the file, and killed the red and blue channels. That's all there is to it. And sorry, i can't upload it, i removed it a long time ago. But it's easy to do.

Also, to edit the real skycolor and not the clouds would be a badass feature. Since the nuke can do it, i bet it would be possible to script it up. Not sure tho.

You probably could script a beacon to be planted, and then just have it last long enough for the level to end

Doesn't work I tried hours on level 3 to do it but it just won't last any longer.

On single player I think if it is like all other C&C games you have to start at the beginning again before changes in the .ini or such will take effect.

That is what I am trying to do.

I am deleting all layers except for green but when I try green decides it wants to be magenta or cyan!!!???

PS:I never noticed that "list all smileys" button...

MY FAVROIT ONE's ---->

So if deleting everything but green does the opposite of what you want, have you tried deleting nothing but green?

yes, dtx5 for all your transparant needs and for non transparant skins dtx1a or dtx1c

i never really figured out the difference
