Woo I got a T-qualizer. It's pretty much awesome. Even my professors are interested in it. I took two videos of myself wearing it playing songs.

For the Lads: Sandstorm

For the Lasses: Cascada

Yep. Just wanted to share that. I also got a ToolLogic Firesteel knife. Huzzah for Thinkgeek.

It seems like a bad idea to me, despite those testimonials (half of which look fake). I'd feel pretty dumb going into a nightclub with one of those on, plus the idea of wearing a T-shirt with batteries in it doesn't appeal to me at all.

Well, I've worn it to class, I've worn it around campus, shown it to everyone under the sun and I think it's the coolest thing on Earth. I would never feel dumb wearing it. Plus you can't even tell you are wearing the battery pack. It sits in a pouch sewn into the left back of the inside of the shirt. It's so light it literally feels identical to a normal shirt.

At least you would not have to worry about any girlfriends "Rampant Rabbit" running out of batteries

They have been in the UK for some time in the raving scene.. Pretty neat.

I once wore flashing bicycle lights strapped to my cargo's to a rave with a illuminous work mans jacket, and big white gloves...

Don't feel stupid, just pop another pill and dance to the beat =]
