We already spoke about this in the Renegade Pre-Release Shit topic, but I just want to make sure. We want to make a mod containing most of the beta files from renegade. But then we need a plan first. The first idea I heard was to make a simple pkg file with some maps and the models in it. My idea was to make it a bit like RenAlert, Reborn etc. If you have any new ideas feel free to tell them here. All other people, please post all beta files you have!

I already sent Aircraftkiller an e-mail to ask him for the beta files. I hope he gives them to me or that he will support us.

Crimson has the beta... But she has stated several times that she's not going to release the files because of the EULA or something like that. Though she did say that most of the beta files are in the always.dat and always2.dat; I've never looked for them so I really can't say.

Like what? Hawaiian slave girls?

Ahum, the idea is one big joke, lets tay on track.

Will one person be doing it, or is it somehow possible to combine efforts? If so, I might help out with some random stuff.

In video 1, what would have happened if the reinforced door he dived into happened to be locked?

He would have jammed his leg, and then hopped around cursing under his breath.

How about:

Let's make an animation where Logan actually dives against a locked door.

I think I can import logans model into max and export it with the bones named for havoc so it loads logan as havoc. It's a start.

It's all easy to do. Just replace all the models and sounds, then you're done.

If someone gives out all the beta textures and sounds, then someone else can open LE and replace everything. I can do it, but it sounds time consuming and a tad useless. :/
