T4 will rock if it is set entirely in the future with LOTS of battles between the Terminators VS the humans. Of course, they would have to put a plot in there but with a good cast and good script, it could be a winner.

I guess this time old Arnie won't be back.

Would be awesome if he at least played a cameo appearance and said the famous one line. =]

The plot involves the governor of California fighting in the future with a gang of rebels against the machines. But when the governor sees one particular terminator, it causes a paradox and destroys the universe.

They are making a new terminator series as well. It's called "The Sarah Connor Chronicles", and will be on Fox.
