Hawk-Gaming community is a community that is just starting out. We have an IRC server, irc.hawk-gaming.net, website, <http://hawk-gaming.net/index.php>, and are getting a new server up as we speak. If you would like to have a say about the new server going up be sure to join the community and give us your opinion, also if your looking for a place to hangout the irc is the thing to join. The website itself is looking for responsible individuals who know their way around forums to be mods and administrators. If you have any questions feel free to post them and i'll answer best as I can. On hawk community you'll find some of the greatest renegade players ever and you'd be amazed how much you can learn so stop by and you won't regret it.

Most of us understand why you would want this but the truth is that anyone worth anything is here and is loyal to here.

thats your opinion, even though its not worth much. Anyone worth anything isnt really the right way to come across on that, your basically saying anyone who isnt a loyal part of renforums or the little community isnt a true rene player, which is hardly the case. Some good players are loyal here, as well as some absolutely horrible players are loyal here, so who are you to say who is worth what?

Ive played on the majority of server on WOL, honestly the ones involved with hawk-gaming and the ones with the least amount of bullshit and cry baby crap on them.

Hawk-Gaming

I saw the server and was surprized how active it became, but I hope it is the right server I am talking about.
