What's up with Russians and rude behaviour? Part of their genes?

AoB is right though: It's still big compared to a reasonable sized sig. The problem with yours is the bad contrast of the green letters. The font is already blurry by itself, and the use of green shadowing around it doesn't help. If you make it smaller, it becomes unreadable. I suggest you play around with the colors a bit.

Yes, im afraid all Russians have bad behavior and think they are all "bad ass."

In my opinion, they are the true posers. (wiggers...)

That signature is much too big. I want to browse through posts, not shitty signatures.

Rules of Conduct sticky thread Signatures: These should be nothing more than a small image and few lines of text. Once signatures start getting larger than 8-10 lines of text in size (approximately 450*150 pixels), it distracts from the actual post. The purpose of a forum is to read what other people have to say, not to look at the "pretty pictures" in their signature. The file size of signature should also not exceed 512Kb. If you think that this is too large, you can choose to hide signatures in the Control Panel. Administrators and Moderators reserve the right to restrict your access to the "signatures" feature if you abuse the privilege by using it to violate any of the forum rules.
