I think he pressed "new topic" by accident lol and meant to post in the thread about the tiberium trailer lol unless he just thinks he posts this and people will know what he means(if so then no).

Battlezone, not the arcade game, was off the hook and i posted in the pitts about 4 years ago how I thought they were alike.

I never played battlezone multi player but single player was awesome, did it even support multi player back then?

I also thought Renegade may have "stolen" battle zone developers for its muti player and defintely stole the thrill of destroying structures in first or third person which ever Battle zone was.

PS. I couldn't get past like the second or third map in "battlezone 2".

He's talking about the remake of Battlezone; the original was released in 1980.

Battlezone II was actually very fun. The AI was smarter than the ones in Renegade, you can actually build stuff a la C&C but in first person mode, you could control vehicles. I miss it.
