I must agree. Absolutely no cheats should be allowed in any multiplayer game, I don't care if it is pong, or renegade, there should never, ever be cheats for multiplayer games. Sinlge player- That depends. Id say, if you are one of those people who is completely impatient, you get pi$$ed at everything, and you have at least tried the level a few times... That is understandable.HOWEVER, if you are one of those people who enters their clever little cheat code as soon as a mission starts, and you havent even previously tried the level on your own, you should rot in hell. Pardon my offensiveness, but thats my opinion.

Fair nuff.....but it is easily possible to create cheats which will work in single player ONLY!Do you feel that for those people who find the game too hard to play and therefore, are unhappy with their purchase, should not be allowed to find enjoyment? I feel that that would be VERY selfish!! for one have been on the wrong end of Multi-player cheaters in the past, primarily on the various Half-life games and I agree completely, they should be banned!! know of various sites where your data stream is filtered to check for 'non-conforming' threads and cancels access.....if cheaters do start arriving (and sadly they will, whether Westwood supply cheats or not!), this is always an option!
