Download some forum software (EG: <http://www.simplemachines.org>, <http://www.phpbb.com>) and upload the files to whatever folder you want the forum to be in on your website, such as the forum folder, as Gozy suggested.

Then run the relevant install files to setup the forum. Always double check the install files are fully deleted after setting the forum up to ensure nobody else can use them to screw things up.

SMF Installer

Warning! You do not appear to have a version of PHP installed on your webserver that meets SMF's minimum requirements.
If you are not the host, you will need to ask your host to upgrade, or use a different host - otherwise,

If you know for a fact that your PHP version is high enough you may continue, although this is strongly

Whatever webhost your using must have an extremely outdated version of PHP, get them to upgrade it to PHP5, or try installing phpbb instead...

Also, websites with adverts on are lame....
