Bloom is bright parts getting brighter and bleeding over slightly onto dark parts. What is shown there is everything getting brighter (and still no bleeding effect), thus not bloom.

What's this... Increasing gamma, brightness, AND contrast will make colours lighter?! Screw getting new hardware in the future, I'm just gunna make shit brighter!

I've not laughed so fucking hard in a long time. XD

The second screenshot looks Photoshopped. The ingame shader does not blur the HUD (the top right corner which shows the ping, fps, etc).

Without lag would be nice, I think it's to bright, far to bright.
still, I like to see the end result, which hopefully is darker.

Wrong, it are some .Fx and sceneshader files which were written by Saberhawk I think?

But with different settings it looks pretty good
