has potential, but placing a design right over the texture isn't the way to do it..

Not Bad, Just check out the files and seeing the Green thing shows you know how to do more than paste images.

Like Error said make it transparent then place it over the Ramjet.
That way the detail from the original skin will still be visible while also showing your skin makeover.

So the point of your website is...?

You've made slightly more effort in this skin. Well done. No. Not really. I'm sorry but you're doing horridly simple things that are only ever effective in one aspect, or one part of the texture, if any at all.

Look. If you want to learn how to texture stuff better, add my MSN. Do you want it? Cos I'll help if you're willing to listen. And by listen, I mean when I tell you to try something, don't say "No because its too much work" etc etc. It's to get you to learn.

Then you can make some good stuff instead of posting mainly simple stuff.
