I'm not exactly sure how to desribe this bug but it seems like a driver of a vehicle can be in another place and therefore won't take damage...

The bug where the human state is not set correctly when someone enters a vehicle and leaves the passenger outside while he is still controlling the vehicle may be related. That bug has been fixed. I can not fully explain what happened there though, there might be another cause, so I can't guarantee that it's fixed...
