It's a map.

I had to use a 4.0 script so you might need the scripts.

It's a map.

Do you think they figured out that it's a map yet?

it would be really neat and/or spiffy if you would take screenshots of your map and post them to let people know something about it

or at the very least, a description roszek wrote on Sat, 07 April 2012 14:20lt's a map.

oh shit, i missed this very informative description; please disregard my post

There was a huge screw-up that was overlooked in the map I uploaded.

I deleted the file and uploaded the fixed map to the original post.

I added an album link to the OP; should be easier then downloading the screen shots.

he still fails to grasp the concept

roszek: put the pictures in your original post in [img] tags people don't want to download a photo album just so they can see what your map looks like they shouldn't have to download anything; do you get it now?

Might be unusual but I think it is pretty smart to get some extra protection around your base

I forgot about this map, it's quite unique looking. I wouldn't mind playing a round or two on it.
