Another way...3 SBHs with C4s on a MCT. Once all three go off, boom, up goes your building. The funny thing is, you really don't see it coming because SBH's are invisible.Also, anyone with an Ion Canoon or Nuke can take out a building by themselves.

You get a tech or hottie. Place 2 timed and one remote on the MCT. when the times go off you blow your remote and boom. all your c4 have to be on the MCT, not on the other c4. i used to do this in the demo. id put all my c4 as a sort of chain coming out. it dosent work. Spread em out.

The C4 has to be dead central aswell, if one bit of C4 is placed wrongly, it won't work.

If you shoot on the MCT with your pistol long enough, you might destroy it as well.

By dead central i didn't mean EXACTLY IN THE CENTER i simply meant that if one of the timed C4s was thrown on to the border round the glass it wouldn't be enough to destroy the building.

You need to be a tech / hotwire, use both timed c4 and place the remote, when the timed goes off, blast the remote c4. If nobody sees you nobody will check the building, if anyone hears Building under attack someone will come to repair but will be to late

They won't know if anyones in there until its too late. Of course if someone walks in the building early, hit the Remote, so you still have a chance to kill the building even if you die. One way from keeping people from coming in is to lay prox mines in the entrances to either kill or hurt the enemy. By the time that person warns everyone, it should be too late.

early game rush with a hottie and a engi works best on field:both go in hand, hottie puts one remote on it, then runs to the obbyand blows up both buildings,EZ AS PIE sure.. and noone will realizeBetter you get a med tank and rush to the obby so that it can't hit you anymore, then you can take it out easily. Afterwards you have still enough shells to destroy every building left... [December 24, 2002, 16:47: Message edited by: eggmac]
