He was banning people thinking it was me left and right ill admit i purposely started using usernames of other people LOL he was banning under HUEHUEHUEHUEHUE which i think fits nicely in this situation id flip out too if i bought 3 servers and i cant even fill 1 of the servers after worknig on a game for 11 years and their other game is 100% dead. with that said im a major tiberian sun fan but even ill admit theres a few things that make reborn about as good as normal renegade so i have to give reborn a "meh" rating. for example they got underground units but they slow and when you get to enemy base you can hardly ever surface where you want to. some of the levels are garbage. some of the mechanics of the game are flakey and right now at this moment im glad people dont like tib sun that much just so this shit project dies faster with bitches like this running it. they wont even try to work out our differences so i can play on the server theyd rather permaban me on sight like nutballs

FYI, server 1 has been full to capacity several times now, we even had server 2 half full a couple of times too. We put more servers on than we expected to need deliberately to ensure we could meet demand.

Dude this was cute and funny at the start but 10 different threads with you raging, crying, pleading in all of them is like getting old fast.

Move on or at least to a new forums. I heard BlueHell is a good forums.

Have you gotten a clue you aren't gaining any sympathy or help here and just asking to be abused more?

i will say this one last thing. i wish i wasnt like this. i did like the game. bu i did it out of personal frustration. i usually destroy my addictions so i dont spend too much time on them. it would have been easy for me to dedicate most of my times for a few months to reborn not thinkng about anything else until i eventually flip out. nothing personal to anyone. i just flip out beforehand to destroy obsessions i detect early on. i do have some regret and remorse for those annoyed by my antics during this process. i would be very disappointed to see reborn not succeed. i already still have thoughts of the game after uninstalling it. it is quite an original experience and i already have fond memories of it and some really cool base bombardment defense and offense. you know tha one match renardin where you said you loved your game bombing the nod base with the orca bomber while iwas shooting it down and we were being flooded by gdi units. the game has a lot of depth just like ts. ery good job and like i said original. its not perfect but its good. ciao and i am "sorry" if that's the case, do us all a favor and stop hopping VPNs, stop joining the servers under false names, stop joining under other player's names.

you're ruining the release not only for yourself but also for other people, these people who want to play the game have now been unable to because of your antics.

in his mind he's a great warrior, fighting the good fight in reality he's not being abused; he's obnoxious as fuck and being treated as such the fact that he can't connect those two ideas is creating a great deal of bullshit for everyone else to deal with knock it off son; your parents would be ashamed

Not sure how to put this without looking like just wanting to bash you, but... You should see a psychotherapist, and sshow him this topic and explain that you don't see why people are mean to you. He or she will then start to ask you all kinds of questions. These questions might hurt, but in the end they'll help you to understand why you come across as an annoying troll.
