aside from the fact it was originally stated to be six months, why do you think we should let you back in?

Cause I've been really well behaved and haven't just evaded it with the VPNs that I was provided and let my self back into the community like any twelve year old is capable of and I don't think the punishment fit the crime as BunnyK and I made up way before liquid ever did anything. Also I need to talk to raven.

I think you missed the question - why do you think we should let you in the server? What do you have to contribute as a player/person?

I am kind, courteous, respectful, compassionate, sympathetic, humorous, and one of the best renegade players around so that is pretty beneficial to players that want to get better. Also I can offer various information to people of the jelly-community like my vast experience with Tinder in regards to the topic appshot posted. I have over 5000 matches and counting so I must be pretty cool.

Getting 200 kills before anyone else can get 40 in 40 minutes after joining the game 20 minutes in. #JustBestSniperThings

EDIT: They had their barracks too and this was before unlimited ammo. Umad?

Here's a good KD for you though Tristan.

Third one just for laughs - great moderating here, just bans me midgame on my team with no evidence while I was also a mod at Jelly.

Your taste in textures should be enough to not let you back in.

What? I have brighter skins on the items that are too dark for me to see so it's essentially the same as someone without partial colorblindness playing, I think that's fair. As you can see my sakura or officer or soldier don't have skins. You idiots will do anything to try to berate your alphas.

I think we should test this colorblind statement by making text on these forums the same color as the actual c4 texture and make the forum background the color of the walls or ground; if the replies stop we know he is.

lol I have been colorblind my whole life, i didn't think it was that big of a deal, at least I have a reason to use these skins.

liquid and I have been messaging for the last week and a half every day back and forth about various things and life in Tampa Bay and the first time I ask about my ban he doesn't respond for two days, I sent him a follow up PM and he responded "please stop PMing me" - how weird can you be? sheesh.

he was acting like he had some form of social skills so i knew it was too good to be true.
