That's it, for all you skeptics out there. That took a month to totally finish.

ehhh, wrong. thats not completely correct. Most of the map was created by westwood studios. look I can even create the map without any work in Commando. It's in the presets. Heres a screenie.

Then how come you didnt "make" it?

We all know WS started the map and left it for dead. Then WS gave full ownership of Glacier to AircraftKiller. He then worked really hard and pumped it out so you all can experience the joy of playing it. Although WS could have done a better design job on it.

So hush up. We don't need another flame thread.

If you hit the make button, it pulls the W3D from ACK's mix file. If you don't have his file (for some reason,) then it won't do anything.

First, i'm not flaming anyone. Second, i was not mapping/modding at that time. Third, (to SomeRhino) wrong, on my comp it gives me 3/4 of the map if Glacier's mix file is not there.

He means by "make" it to click the make button when you took the screenshot. He's not flaming you just saying that the screenshot didn't show the map. Thats the reason why "make" is in inverted commas so it is not interpreted as it normally is.

The part where he says it's owned by ACK is completely correct, the part where he said it was made by ACK would be like 95% correct.

The version in Commando is ACK's, Westwood never finished/released what they had.

Let me guess, the 1/4 that you don't get is the terrain right? You get the buildings and stuff like that but not the terrain?

That's a crock of bullshit. GlacierT2.w3d exists only in C&C_Glacier_Flying.mix. You cannot make the preset of Glacier Flying and have the terrain appear without having Glacier Flying in your data directory.

Case closed, I made it.
