A 2.35mb video isn't necessary to learn boolean...

A 5 lines of text would do the same in alot less time.

There's not that much to it... Just click an object, click on Boolean under Compounds in the Create tab, than click on Pick Operand B and pick the object you want to use to cut a hole in the first object. If you want to unite objects instead of subract them than just click on Union A-B, and click pick operand B and the object.
