Quote:DoS attacks

Will they ever end? Who knows? Only the attacker knows who he is and when they'll stop. Thanks for sticking with us through these crazy times. -Christine/Crimson

This Hacker Sucks ass. I hope Crimson don't shut down n00bstories in frustration of the hacker.

Update

IRC

<Havocman> Crimson do you plan to close the site if this continues?

<Crimson> Fuck no.

well if you moditerd the connection to the server 24 7 entill the hacker came you would be abill to see when he entered the server then you could snatch his IP for later use and get in his comp though the connection he made and start takeing sytem critical files :twisted:

The best way to ask free advice is to ask the people in the webhosting business, they have to protect their servers against these kinds of attacks aswell.

<http://www.webhostingtalk.com/> ask it in the webhosting board. (It's quite a large board so you will most likely get a fast reply)

Riiiiight....

These attackers use botnets - a bunch of IRC "bots" that are running on the computers of people that have unwittingly installed a trojan. The attacker basically gives the bots a target, and uses their combined bandwidth to perform the attack. The only IP you'd ever get (assuming it wasn't spoofed anyway) is from one of the trojan-infected PCs.

As for "taking system critical files" - sure. Someone with the savvy to perform this kind of attack has open shares on his system root..... :rolleyes:
