Just something that shot trough my head... for me westwood is still the company that made red alert 1 and 2, tiberian sun, renegade and even generals is their idea... no way EA ever comes up with the idea's westwood brought up.

Just want you guys opinion on it...

Wil you stay respecting westwood, even though its gone??

Well it doesnt matter to me what it says on the box, as long as the name Command & Conquer is above the name, its a sign for me that its a game that was made by the guys at westwood studio's!!

the original idea came from westwood... allong with future C&C titles!

C&C MEANS WESTWOOD WHOOHOO!!!!

actually, the only reason Generals is a C&C was because It'd sell better, IMO the true C&C games are TD, RA1, TS, and Renegade, If you think about it though, Renegade is even more of a C&C game than RA2, even though It's an FPS.

TheDragonummm.... actually, when red alert was made, westwood was already owned by EA.

Nope, Red Alert was made when Westwood was ruled by Virgin. The first C&C made under EA was Tiberian Sun.

BTW, Westwood will be rebemembered forever.

Everyone, don't forget that the original question was...

Havoc_eliteWil you stay respecting westwood, even though its gone??

Respecting, not if you will remember them.

IMHO, I'll respect westwood until the day i die for they've given us so much.

Westwood revolutionised the gaming world by creating the Real Time Strategy (RTS) genre, it's scary to think that without them we may not have had RTS games at all today.

No. Westwood was owned by Virgin. Red Alert 1, C&C DAWN,C&C SS, and MAYBE TS were all made by WW when they were owned by Virgin.

BTW... did you guys know that Renegade isn't the first #D game westwood has brought out... In cooperation with some other company (probably Virgin as the dragon already said) they made a first person tank shooter called Recoil, for a game that has been made mid 90's, thats a good looking thing.
