Just a quick post in reponse to one of the questions I have been asked recently. I have have had a few people asking me if they can report cheaters or 'spammers' to someone at EA. I did a bit of looking around and the closest thing I found was an email on the support pages to report terms of services violations.

I have no idea if this will help anyone but it was posted along under the c&c section (although a lot of the info is outdated e.g. "Flying Units are currently only available on the Renegade Flying Unit Beta"). I thought it would be worth letting people know that there is an address for such reports. The email is tos@support.ea.com, the full topic can be found here. Thanks

He is correct, the only way people get klined from WOL is if you h4x0r it and only then it was if the sysops was around.

And we dont have sysops any more..

/me misses the days of TS

Amen England. I miss the days with Sunflight on TS, bugging the crap out of her, getting banned, going on a different nickname, repeat 5 times until it was an IP ban. Always temp though.

Yeah theres no point in reporting soemone through that email, do you honostly think they read it?

striking loto with 1234.. has a much higher chance than ea replying. They jsut don't give support anymore, or they never had support
