Anyone else having problems with the forums?

I've noticed that they're running pretty slow, and occasionally I'll hit the "Reply" button and it will send me back to the index. This is more or less for the admins, but I was curious if it was me.

I've used this site from multiple locations and I always get the same problems. Maybe the database is getting too full?

I dunno. Just thought I'd bring that to your attention in case no one else has. Thanks.

When clicking "reply" (or any other posting command, for that matter) if you're registered, will log you in. That is at least, from my own experiances.

But yes, this only started recently, and is mostly just a glitch in the system.

No, I didn't realize some of you didn't use the correct URL.

Use <http://www.renegadeforums.com> instead of the n00bstories.com URL and you shouldn't have any problems. phpBB doesn't like be accessed via multiple domains, so when I get a chance I'll hack something together to make sure you're coming in correctly and if not, change you over.
