RenGuard.com design contest!

Put your name in lights on RenGuard.com!

I can program in PHP and do anything in HTML, except come up with creative design. So, All the designers of the community are invited to submit their best ideas for the design of the site.

Rules:

1) Design must include the RenGuard logo from the current site. Why? Because it's already being used as our official logo.

2) Design must provide the same functionality as the existing site.

3) Design will get higher marks if they are encoded in HTML instead of just a PhotoShop document. But, I'll convert it if the design is worth it.

4) My decision on the winning design is final, but the RenGuard team will have input to the judging,

5) Multiple submissions are allowed from a single designer.

6) Site can be coded in pure HTML or if you choose to use a server-side language for anything, it must be PHP.

7) Deadline: All submissions should be in by the end of the day Friday, September 26. I'd like to have made my selection by Friday night and implement that weekend.

Prize:

Free advertisement of one site on your behalf, by way of tagline at the bottom of either the home page or every page of the site. Something to the effect of 'Design Courtesy of Bob's Designs'. The site advertised must not contain anything that we wouldn't be proud to link to. (such as a site for cheats, Silent KaneIs flash allowed?.

Flash intros are officially gay. And if you put the content in Flash, I'm not going to have the software to edit it, nor the desire.

So if you can add Flash while not making an intro, or putting the content there, then yes.

Looking at aprimes layout I just don't think it's worth bothering to put an entry in (mine wouldn't be that good)

Nice work Aprime .

I went for a more "simple" design as opposed to Aprime's:

I can code it if you decide to use it, but it's not coded and ready to go already because I'm not going to bother coding it when I don't know if it's going to be used or not hmmmmmm.

I like Taximes Header very much and Aprimes Mainsite.

That would look like this

Very coooooooool, huh??

Aprime's too flat, taximes's is a bit too spacy but ok and drastic's layout is a bit too full (like too much graphics/detail on 1 page)

Before i get flamed... no i can't do a better job then them. No offence.

I was thinking about adding a flash menu, which loads it's content from a XML file

Edit: Oh yeah, you have something to edit it, just ask Blazer

Yes, but I have no desire to learn Flash at the moment. I can, however, edit an XML file no problem.

hmm... I like them both.... aprime's has a little too much metal, but I like the top part on his... but I like Taximes' layout more. I just dislike the banner part.
So I guess I like Taximes more. yay.

Are you serious about this?

Multiple people from your group practically bragged about their skills with web design and programming. Now you want design ideas from the community? I'm actually kind of amused.

There are a few good ideas on here, but unless you're out to impress someone with a fancy website I'd stick to a simple site like the one you have right now. Dont overkill. Focus on releasing RenGuard not a fancy site.

Um, I'm not a developer for RenGuard. I'm doing the website and PR. I never bragged about web design skills. Having someone in the community design the site saves me a lot of time and makes the presentation more professional... since as we pointed out, the website should be an example of the quality going into the product the site is for.

Which reminds me, I haven't chosen a winner. OOPS

[Edit: no one from "the group" bragged about their web design skills. Most of us admit to not being great with images beyond manipulation of existing ones. We're more programmers for functionality types, not designers.]

Even if Crimson wasn't the person who was designing the site, and was also helping code the program, by asking the community to design the site that would also make it so she could shift her focus on the program also. This is not a matter of where the focus needs to be, it's a matter of you just need something to complain about now.

Oh, fuck off!

Don't get me started with the kiddie shit again.

I simply found it amusing that they're trying to make a fancy website for a product that may never be released. DONT GET ME WRONG I hope that it is released ... and soon ... and I'd probably use it ... but acting on the moment I found it amusing and I was simply pointing that out.

Oddly enough, I don't think I addressed anyone except Crimson and her team. Let's keep it clean.

Look, I think the website is fine the way it is.

But a lot of people want to help, and I found a way to get one more person to be able to help with the project by designing the site. I simply can't find any reason for you to make those sorts of comments.

haven't done anything to even help the growing cheating problem. You tried to do some website thing then I think Ack was mad at you and said something you got all pissy and shut it down (community site thingy). Whatever you say reflects on our clan and now with your promotion to "leader" which openly I do not agree with You should think more before you flame people trying to do some good. Just leave them be dude all i can say because you are making your clan look stupid and since u seem to be against this anticheat project predicting its doom etc It makes me wonder what you say about Blaze and My anticheat..

On a lighter note
I like drastic's design the best

Meow:

This was an old post and has been resolved. There are no outstanding issues with myself or the RenGuard team.

The fact that you went out of your way to post something negative about me (then posted a follow up in OUR forums) shows a lot about your character.

Since you called me out here, I will do the same (though I feel it has no place here).

If you have a problem with me or something I have said (past, present, future) come talk to me or Teardrop. If you can't handle this or this sort thing happens again you'll be finding a new clan.

You amaze me. You come from left field with this thread. It's been dead for almost 2 weeks.

And I'm not threatening you. In fact I will say it again. If you continue to do this sort of thing I will vote to have you kicked out of ConKil.

CPO64:

It wasn't a threat. It was a promise. A threat is something you hold over someone's head. And seeing as I'm a leader of the clan it wouldn't take much effort to vote for a kick. Regardless, this has nothing to do with you.

Jelly and I have a long history together (since the demo days basically) and we haven't had the healthiest relationship. We had a mature discussion about our differences on our teamspeak and I think we understand eachother now.

THAT is how you resolve conflict. And now Jelly has a little more respect from me.

Issue resolved.
