Subject: :twisted:
Posted by bigejoe14 on Sat, 27 Sep 2003 16:22:01 GMT

:twisted:

Notice the logo on the tank and the logos above the mini map.

I think I might have a new reason to re-install BF1942 lol.

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by John Shaft Jr. on Sat, 27 Sep 2003 16:46:01 GMT

WHOA!!!!   I'll install my BF1942 also just to play that Mod.

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by Sir Phoenixx on Sat, 27 Sep 2003 17:35:03 GMT

That's some ugly crap. Those logos are so damn pixelated.

Why is the GDI logo on one tank and not on the other?

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by Ultron10 on Sat, 27 Sep 2003 17:40:25 GMT

What's so special about it?

It looks like someone has taken the DC Mod and modified it to add some horribly pixelated logos, which I doubt the DC team would be very pleased about.

Edit: If you want a REAL reason to re-install BF1942, then go here.

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by Xtrm2Matt on Sat, 27 Sep 2003 18:10:10 GMT

Desert Combat rocks. Awsome mod.

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by General Havoc on Sat, 27 Sep 2003 18:57:40 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

've played BF1942 but never thought much of the graphics in the game. They only seem to look half decent when FSAA (Full Screen Anti-Aliasing) is enabled on them because most of the stuff has jagged edges. A lot of other games look half decent without having to enable FSAA.

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by DaveGMM on Sun, 28 Sep 2003 02:12:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The image is photoshopped, man.

a) BOTH tanks are the same, yet only one has the logo.
b) Those images would NOT be pixelated in game.
c) It's photoshopped. Any moron can tell you that.

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by bigejoe14 on Sun, 28 Sep 2003 02:15:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Bummer, it would be neat if it wasen't photoshoped.

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by DaveGMM on Sun, 28 Sep 2003 12:00:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Another reason:

Look at the GDI logo in the top right. You can see a line between some beige colouring and the grey colouring.

The people who photoshopped this did a bad, bad job.

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by Cadet1288 on Sun, 28 Sep 2003 13:54:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

bigejoe14Bummer, it would be neat if it wasen't photoshoped.

Yeah, it looks like someone just took the logo and copied and psated it one there. If I didn't know what C&C was, the two logos at the top would look like blobs of color. :rolleyes:

Subject: :twisted:
Posted by boma57 on Sun, 28 Sep 2003 14:48:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Pfft...Mine's obviously fake, too, but at least it's not...whatever that one is.