And in doing so, it made me think... why are softdrink companies and everyone else coming out with new, "extreme" marketing or "extreme" flavors? most of them suck. does anyone here actually like that blue pepsi shit?

Someone else agrees with me...

Here is another...

I've come to the conclusion that coke is better than pepsi. This is because they are both the same in popularity, but pepsi needs to have way more advertisements to be as popular as coke

Pepsi is a lot better than Coke IMO.

I also like Pepsi Blue. Actually this is one product that didn't really have "X-TREME" advertising. Seems pretty normal to me. It's one of the few varieties of coke/pepsi that is different enough to be worth buying.

So lemme get this right, this 'Pepsi Blue' that you guys have, is it just regular pepsi coloured with BLUE rather than black?

If so, it seems like a really poor way to get more kids to buy it...

I'd say Pepsi is tastes much better than Coke anyday.
Mind you, the lemon pepsi is better than the lemon coke.

I wanna see the cherry coke come back, you can barely buy that anywhere nowadays in larger 2 litre bottles.

Not only is it blue, it's berry flavored as well.

Ah cool, sounds nice. :bigups:

Something to look forward to when it finally comes out in the UK.

Thats fine... I still like the taste, no matter who is advertising it. An ad isn't going to make me drink it if I don't like it. Not to mention the advertising obviously works if you remember it pretty much word for word, hate it or not.

LMAO.

No wonder that soda tastes like shit.

Then Pepsi copies them with even worse vanilla-coke.
