Everytime I select "Advanced Game Listings" or anything else on that page, my computer completely freezes. No way out. I have tried it about 10 times. Still no luck. Anyone know what my problem is?

This is a really easy fix....Just wait. The computer actually isn't frozen at all, it is just scanning/loading all of your .pkg files in you data folder. The more that you have in that folder the longer it takes to load.

I had about 20 in my data folder and it took my computer almost three compleate minutes to get past that screen. For three minutes my computer would be "frozen" and not even Crtl Alt Delete would work. I deleated all of the .pkg files it it loads right away now.

I hope this is your problem and this is the solution. If not....then I don't know.
