If any of you need help getting off on the right foot, send me an email and I'll do whatever I can to help you.

I am no longer attached to a clan, nor will I ever be again, and I want to help the community as much as I can.

I can help you with anything from developing a website, renting good servers for cheap prices, to setting up an FDS (Windows or Linux), to writing custom utilities, to developing the skill and strategy of your clan.

You don't have to be good. And you don't have to be a large clan. I'll help anyone. The community needs a boost and more challengers.

You can get a hold of me best on MSN: fl00d3d@hotmail.com.

The former, "fl00d3d"
