Why can't you use BR? If it's a technical problem perhaps it can be solved.

Right, someone is hostin the server for me, he has 2 servers already running they are both the primary servers, he can only have 2 primary server, so mine will be a slave server. Im told BR wont run on a slave server, hence my problem, i know little about this anyway but the guy who told me this does(who hosts the servers already), I hope i explained this well.

You can't use a slave server, the FDSD doesn't log things from a slave server, you'd need to use a master server.

Try running another primary server but in a different subdirectory...that should work fine.

3 FDS on one box...must be a nice one

Dual zeon 2.4 I think . Im not sure who he rents the server from so im not sure if what you suggested is possible, and whether they will allow it. Il ask him and find out.

Thanks.

What Blaze means is install the FDS on the box, but don't put it in the default dir. So instead of C:\Westwood\.... you would put the 2nd install in C:\anywhere but westwood\ and you will do fine.
