First:

Thanks to all map makers, including ACK, even though he is lame... :twisted:
Thanks to crimson for recommending a good host
Thanks to djLaptop, for wolspy even though it doesn't work properly ...

Second:

YOu can download all the maps from: <http://renmaps.cjb.net> it includes all the readmes as well, download them individually or by map pack.
Its a 28 player server that runs all day, it runs wolspy as well so gamespy people can join.

Please join when you have the chance.

First of all, I don't need to copy any names nor does I have any desire to, as for why choose those names? simple its a place where people can get maps, I could careless where they got them from be rentstation, cncden, renmaps, doesn't matter.

I could have put renmaps.com but they don't have bio in it, so I got a domain renmaps.net just so people can hurry up and download maps.

I mean unlike the 50 other sites, <http://www.renmaps.net> is a simple download page :rolleyes: and is meant for leeching maps nothing else. I would have chosen .com but it was taken.

oh speedy, renbattle was never popular it was a pos, which is why it went under. As for originality, oh ya Renmaps.com so original, ren = renegade, maps= maps. The owner thought he had copyrighted his the name renbattle.

Renbattle was the 1st Pure all fan map server...and had some damn good players.

Running A pure Fan map server is hard to do in this community and it is hard to pull off.

Best of luck to your server...we could use another fan map server....but we dont need another jerk we allready have one that thinks he's the king of mapping....change your attitude and go about your business.

we already have one that thinks he's the king of mapping....change your attitude and go about your business.

First of all I never played on renbattle, at most like 1-2 and I never played long enough to finish a map.

Now I tell you why it sucked:

-1 Dogg was an ego maniac, he and his staff would kick people if they felt like it, their language detection was so freaking lame, you would say "lag" and a big message would come up: "No lag, your computer is too slow or your connection is slow!" you would be kicked for saying "wtf", "hell", "gay"...

-2 I titled my server, [UN] renbattle maps, when I was running custom maps so that people would know where to download them from. I thought he wouldn't mind after all it's more publicity for him. Guess what he does? comes to our forums and says: "Renbattle is a copyrighted name" this genius managed to copyright a name :rolleyes: as if that is even possible.

-3 The maps in the rotation were just lame, and what the heck? 60+ maps that's insane out of the 60 45 were total crap, 5 were crap, and 10 were ok. None of the suggestions helped, the staff wouldn't take crappy maps out of the rotation, only add more map packs. I mean damn there were 4 versions of field in the rotation at one time :rolleyes: 1, with bots, 1 with tunnel nuking + b2b glitch fixed, 1 called field improved, and heck even the original field.

at one time I even offered Dogg to help the cost of running the server and he turned it down. I only asked that he take out some retarded maps and let me use renbattle name on my server so people would know where to get the maps.

The individual links, there were 2 sections, you could download the map pack or you could go download each map individually, for the individual download I link to your site and cncden, but not directly to your map files. so before a person would download a map then would go to your site not to your map file.

Anyway, now they won't even have to do that as I uploaded each individual map, before you were getting traffic to your site, now that won't even happen.

LOL gotta love people who claim to know what they are talking about by only using PART of the given information.

Quote:Can I copyright my domain name?
Copyright law does not protect domain names.

True, copyrights do not protect it, but that doesn't mean just anyone can use it. there are places such as the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) that resolve disputes of this nature.

Quote:Can I copyright the name of my band?
No. Names are not protected by copyright law.

Quote:How do I copyright a name, title, slogan or logo?
Copyright does not protect names, titles, slogans, or short phrases.

Also true that Copyrights do not protect that, however they CAN be protected as a trademark, Service mark, or Registered trademark.

Is there much of a difference? Not really, the only nig difference is what they protect. So you were technically right when you said that the name McDonalds can't be copyrighted, but it's still protected as a registered trademark.

It might not be trademarked now, but YES it IS free! A bit of information... RESEARCH your topics before you challange me.

Quote:What is a trademark or service mark?

A trademark is a word, phrase, symbol or design, or a combination of words, phrases, symbols or designs, that identifies and distinguishes the source of the goods of one party from those of others.

Now that you know what exactly a trademark is... what has to be done to trademark it?

Quote:Is registration of my mark required?

No. You can establish rights in a mark based on legitimate use of the mark. However, owning a federal trademark registration on the Principal Register provides several advantages, e.g.,

Any time you claim rights in a mark, you may use the "TM" (trademark) or "SM" (service mark) designation to alert the public to your claim, regardless of whether you have filed an application actually registers a mark, and not while an application is pending. Also, you may use the registration symbol with the mark only on or in connection with the goods and/or services listed in the federal trademark registration.

So.. with the research complete, you can plainly see that all he has to do is put the little "TM" after the name, and it's his! The only benefit registering it would do is provide further legal proof that the mark is his.

Subject: Renmaps.cjb.net Server is now full time.
Posted by Alkaline on Tue, 20 Jan 2004 22:01:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

No, your wrong again. He can't put TM on it, it won't make a difference, because its not registered and he can claim rights to it just as much as I can, in fact anyone can claim rights to it and have just as much ownership.

The fact is Trademarks aren't given out on the whim, renmaps is too big of a generalization and won't be given a trade mark because it isn't unique and too simple. Same thing happened to xerox, when they coined the term xerox it and photocopy, these words are used without the owners permission.

Its the same reason why <http://www.renegadeforums.com> can't be trademarked, because its too general and not unique enough. Apple.com was owned by an apple farmer, apple inc could not take the domain from him and had to buy it. So mgstpain has no control over renmaps.net or the word renmaps, he can even register a federal trademark but they won't give him the domain renmaps.net.

I know what I'm talking about, you don't. A non registered tm is as good as as a verbal contract, which is shit, when it comes to ownership rights. :rolleyes:

2 posts, no use quoting them both.

So, you go ahead and quote from an outside source, HOPING that there is a slight chance that they may be right? Go right ahead! I'll just give the definition that the GOVERNMENT (IE the people that authorize the registered trademarks) uses!

Quote:What is a trademark or service mark?

A trademark is a word, phrase, symbol or design, or a combination of words, phrases, symbols or designs, that identifies and distinguishes the source of the goods of one party from those of others.

A service mark is the same as a trademark, except that it identifies and distinguishes the source of a service rather than a product. Throughout this booklet, the terms "trademark" and "mark" refer to both trademarks and service marks.

Quote:Is registration of my mark required?

No. You can establish rights in a mark based on legitimate use of the mark.

So, if your going to try to prove me wrong, please do so in a way that I have no other option but accepting that you are right? Also realize that there is a difference in a trademark, and a registered trademark, but I'll leave it up to you to research, as it seems you need the practice.

Oh, but I have seem to have missed something! You seem to pull this idea, almost out of thin air, that I seem to suggest that domains can be trademarked. Never did I even mention this! Why? Because you CAN'T trademark domains! However, he can trademark the renmaps name, "based on the legitimate use of the mark". Meaning if he has a ligitimate use of it, oh say by supplying the community with maps and having the name "Renmaps" publicized because of it, he can legitimatly trademark the name! Sure you can keep your domain as "Renmaps.net" but that would be as far as the use of that name could go.

Of course this is all if he does infact decide to trademark the name.

Edit: oh, whats this? I took a closer look at your source of information, and you have -once again- seemed to omit certain things that are mentioned that would degrade your stance!

Quote:trademark indicates the source of goods or services. As this definition implies, you must be supplying some sort of goods or services in order to claim trademark protection.

Well, maybe your source IS reasonable after all! Renmaps.com provides goods and services to the Renegade community!

Quote:What is a trademark? A trademark indicates the source of goods or services.

Ah! The source of the goods or services! My, that sort of falls under MY explanation! Renmaps can't be trademarked as a word, but it CAN be trademarked at the place that provides "goods and services" to the community! Kind of like when I said: "Meaning if he has a ligitimate use of it, oh say by supplying the community with maps and having the name "Renmaps" publicized because of it, he can legitimatly trademark the name!". Just add on that the "name" can be trademarked only as far as a place that provides the goods and services.

Edit2: you know what? I'll save you the effort of restating you quote again, and just reject it now.

Quote:Unless they are actually selling the product in commerce or intend to sell the product in commerce, they cannot obtain trademark protection.

sell (P) Pronunciation Key (s)

v. tr.

To exchange or deliver for money or its equivalent.

Once again, the sale of goods and services does not have to be in exchange of money. Any other form of "reward" can also be acceptable, if deemed to have equivlent value. With most internet sites, they provide a service and in return they get hopefully large number of hits in return from some form of reccomendation.

see this is where you fuck up, your entire post is meaningless because your assuming something and hoping it to be true, "reward" is some bullshit you made up, its not legal tender.
Renmaps.com isn't selling anything to the public, hence the use of "renmaps" in other places cases is entirely acceptable. Nor can you claim any right to renmaps.net because trademarks do not cover owning domain names, e.g. why someone can own <http://www.dodgeviper.com> and Dodge the company can't do anything about it.

Unlike you I provided hard facts, your argument is based upon your stupid assumption which is WRONG, once again. Give it up, and move on silly man. :twisted:

My... goodness..

Here's a hint. In order to win an argument, stop taking what people say and ignoring it.

I ALREADY SAID that you can't register domain names, but rather the name renmaps when used as a sale item. Someone can't sell Dodge Vipers on the internet, simply because they happen to own the domain name.

Another bit of advice. Take a CONTRACT LAW course, maybe then your arguments will hold water with me. A sale is a contract between two parties, where one is providing a service (including the sale of goods) and the other is compensating the other person's loss by giving something back that is of equivalent value. "Equivalent value" is what makes a contract legal. You can't sell a house that is worth 3 million for $1 unless both parties are fully aware of the terms of the contract and agree on it with full consent and that they are of sane mind and body etc. when they do so. If it is agreed that the traffic produced for a site is good enough for the site to offer its service, then the sale is complete, as maps ARE a commodity.

Here, I'll make it simple for you.

3. satisfying return or result; profit.

And just in case you try to argue that the maps (and modifications) that the server has are NOT commodities:

2 .An article of trade or commerce

So once again, because I have a feeling you STILL won't get it...

Renmaps CAN be used in other domain names, it CAN NOT (IF trademarked) be used as a sale name. Ex: "Thanks to Renmaps for hosting this!" or "Renmaps made this (if applicable) could only be used if it referred to the trademarked name. Just like if the RenAlert or Reborn teams decided to trademark their names, no other mod could use the name (as it is used as the name of the item being sold). But they could still host a domain with that name.

AT THIS CURRENT POINT IN TIME: to my knowledge, neither site has trademarked the renmaps name, so at this current point in time, ANYONE can use it for whatever reason they seem fit.

And yes, you do use hard facts, unfortunately you only use part of the facts when you present them, as I have shown many times.

You know what? This is getting nowhere. I have shown you where you were wrong, you refuse to accept it, and then just as a child would proceed to attempt to belittle me by throwing "insulting" names at me. (Well, I'm assuming you find them insulting). Don't believe me, READ what I have been posting, RESEARCH the topic (as I have suggested) TAKE a few contract law courses so that you know exactly what a sale is. And then come back and we'll talk, because then you'll have taken the same steps as I have in regards to what I have spoken about.

Until then: Locked.

Quote:True, copyrights do not protect it, but that doesn't mean just anyone can use it. there are places such as the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) that resolve disputes of this nature.

And as we can see by the decision, the fact that the NAME was used wasn't important.

Quote:The Panel decides that (1) the Domain Name registered by Respondent is identical to the because it was dodgeviper.com and not dodgeviperfansite.com], (2) that Respondent has no rights or legitimate interests in respect of the Domain Name, and (3) that the Domain Name has been registered and used in bad faith no, dodgeviper.com lost the case because he tried to sell the domain on ebay! In that case, trademark law applies because he is trying to make money off dodge company. However, before he tried to sell the domain, dodge could not have done anything. Same thing happened to apple.com, an apple farmer in CA had registered the domain <http://www.apple.com>, since the farmer had a legitmate buisness and was selling apples, apple inc. could not take his domain... However, if that farmer was using it in some way to extort apple inc, or in some way make money from apple inc then they could get the domain. In the end, apple inc bought the domain from him.

<http://www.lsulaw.com>, LSU LOST, they did not get the domain. I know this I go to LSU, you can even check my IP. See here, I'm not way off you are.

Unless it deals with commerce, trademark law does not apply, LSU thought they could get the domain simply because it included the word LSU, no thats not the case.

I said it once, I'll say it again. "Renmaps" can be used be anyone freely without worry. There is no legal power you can have over the name. Unless it is federally registered.

read what ican has to say as well, in dodgeviper.com's case the owner used the domain in BAD FAITH, he tried to sell it and make money off it, hence 2 commerce comes into play, and trademark law has a stake in the case.

As long as you use a domain in good faith, there is nothing you can do about. I'm using <http://www.renmaps.net> in good faith, and msgtpain can't do jack shit about it.

However, I on the other hand could nail him for libel for saying he was hosting maps for me.

Libel? You have got to be kidding me. Guess what? ONLINE reputations mean NOTHING. Unless him saying that you hosted "his" maps damages your reputation to any great degree IN REAL LIFE, then yes he could be libel. But somehow I highly doubt that would happen. "Oh no! I lost my friends and my job because someone said I hosted their maps"

Quote:no, dodgeviper.com lost the case because he tried to sell the domain on ebay! In that case, trademark law applies because he is trying to make money off dodge company. However, before he tried to sell the domain, dodge could not have done anything.

Once again, you only report PART of the whole thing. It's too much to quote everything that was done (I will if I have to) but it wasn't that fact that he tried to sell it, it's that he tried to sell it for MORE than what he had spent on it. In other words, make a profit. However, if you read the things the complain listed, AS WELL as the rulings, you'll find that it was more than just selling the domain name for profit. As the ruling stated:

Quote:The Panel decides that (1) the Domain Name registered by Respondent is identical to the DODGE and VIPER, (2) that Respondent has no rights or legitimate interests in respect of the Domain Name, and (3) that the Domain Name has been registered and used in bad faith.

Edit: I just looked at the LSUlaw link. Interesting how you say that the lawsuit has been decided, considering the site states that it is still ongoing. Sure it could just be that the owner hasn't updated the site, but it still isn't proof that what you say is true.

Something I also just noticed... you seem to continue to push this idea of being able to use the renmaps.net domain. Even AFTER I have said (what three times now?) that you CAN use it. IF msgtpain decided to trademark it, you could STILL use the name, as you have a legitimate reason for it. However, you COULD NOT use the name "Renmaps" in any sort of Renmaps.net site advertisement.

Of course this is only true IF he wishes to trademark it, and the laws don't differ when both parties are providing the same service.

mgstpain has no control over "renmaps" even the word. Also I can use it advertisements if I want, he can't do anything about it. I can actively sell merchandise using that name. Once I do this, I will actually own rights to "renmaps", because I was the first one to use it in commerce. I keep telling you trademarks only apply in commerce, not in everyday speech, and usually the one who starts using it first in commerce gets the rights. what you think every time I use the word microsoft I have to pay them? No. Didn't you read that entire article? I'm sorry but your download reward the public bullshit does not count :rolleyes: its not commerce.

Yes, I can hold him for Libel, This website is in print and can be used to pin him, I have seen cases like this, where the defendant lost.

As for the LSU case, LSU dropped it. they are now arguing over <http://www.lsusucks.com>, this used to point to <http://www.lsulaw.com> but dougyboy (nick name) decided to remove that.

Warrnto I passed the Bar In Louisiana 1 year go, I know more about this anyone on this forum, Heck one my good friends was even being sued by the sam University he goes to, and it was after something very similiar to this. I'm currently getting my MBA, and will get my JD soon.

You are confused and mislead, I see this all the time, people have big misconceptions and the only reason you are posting here is because you feel that you have to defend mgstpain in some way because he can't do it himself. That goes for all the people that are posting retarded comments.

As for the dodgeviper.com I already told he tried to MAKE MONEY OFF of dodge, which is why he lost the case!

n.
The buying and selling of goods

buy (P) Pronunciation Key (b)

v. tr.

To acquire in exchange for money or its equivalent; purchase sell (P) Pronunciation Key (sl)

v. tr.

To exchange or deliver for money or its equivalent

Something useful that can be turned to commercial or other advantage
An article of trade or commerce,

To obtain in exchange for money or its equivalent

Now that the definitions are set forth, you can plainly see that selling, buying, commerce in general, DOES NOT HAVE TO INVOLVE MONEY. All it has to do is provide a service for people where he gets an equivalent "something" in return. If he wanted to he could charge for access to his site, as he is only recouping lost income on bandwidth (assuming the income doesn't exceed his out of pocket expenditures), however he has decided not to do that.

But regardless, as I have said before (now FOUR times :rolleyes:) YOU CAN USE THE RENMAPS.NET DOMAIN. however, IF (maybe when I stress it enough, you'll notice it) he decides to trademark the name renmaps, YOU CAN STILL USE THE DOMAIN. HOWEVER IF he decided to do that, since he is providing a service to people, you won't be able to use the name IN REGARDS TO SELF PROMOTION. That would be the same as holding a pary, making hamburgers, selling (refer to the defintion of selling I provided) them, and calling them McDonalds burgers. Yes I will admit the use of the word sale is somewhat not completely accurate as with what todays standards imply, but it is still simply and exchange of goods for equivalent value. For such an educated person, you sure don't read very well.

As for libel, lets say for the moment your right. You can go ahead and sue him for libel, I'll be right behind you with my suit against you.

warranto,

1. You don't know what libel's meaning is, profanity/derogatory comments are not considered libel. However, alteration of facts does. Being this dumbass you are your probably going to tell me that call you a n00b alter the fact that you aren't. Obviously your dumbass for even thinking that.

2. As for the SERVICE, the could, should, IS NOT THE SAME, don't quote dictionary definations dumbass, legal definitions are NOT the same as oXford's dictionary. As far as legality goes, THEIR is no commerce involved, hence no right to claim anything. Only thing you established is bullshit, nothing with legal leverage.

3, I registerd renmaps.cjb.net 11 months ago, this was back when even before renbattle was on gamespy. I use to run a Tibevo 12 server way back in the day, and when ack released country meadows I created a quick site so that people could dl the map. There was no <http://www.renmaps.com> then... Then the bullshit with renbattle started and I said fuck it, drop this new map nonsense.

Then once I got a stable server, I said I'll use that renmaps.cjb.net to derect people where to dl the maps. People that join the server said we aren't going to download single maps, so I added a map pack. Seeing as how cjb.net is advertising whoore, I got the domain renmaps.net to remove those shitty ads. I had the intention of using renmaps from day 1.

Renmaps its self is not some creative name, anyone thinking of creating a site where people can download maps for renegade would have thought of it, its short and to the point, so mgstpain, you aren't no fucking creative mastermid. If I wanted to copy someone, it would not have been renmaps.com , it would have been renwars, or renbattle, because they are the ones that actually have people playing new maps on there servers.

I could have had access to <http://www.renegademaps.com>, how creative is that? you put the name of the game, and maps to it , and vollla your a genius.

Ah, so you want legal definitions then? Well here you go!

Quote:libel

1) n. to publish in print (including pictures), writing or broadcast through radio, television or film, an untruth about another which will do harm to that person or his/her reputation, by tending to bring the target into ridicule, hatred, scorn or contempt of others. Libel is the written or broadcast form of defamation, distinguished from slander, which is oral defamation. It is a tort (civil wrong) making the person or entity (like a newspaper, magazine or political organization) open to a lawsuit for damages by the person who can prove the statement about him/her was a lie. Publication need only be to one person, but it must be a statement which claims to be fact and is not clearly identified as an opinion. While it is sometimes said that the person making the libelous statement must have been intentional and malicious, actually it need only be obvious that the statement would do harm and is untrue. Proof of malice, however, does allow a party defamed to sue for general damages for damage to reputation, while an inadvertent libel limits the damages to actual harm (such as loss of business) called special damages. Libel per se involves statements so vicious that malice is assumed and does not require a proof of intent to get an award of general damages. Libel against the reputation of a person who has died will allow surviving members of the family to bring an action for damages. Most states provide for a party defamed by a periodical to demand a published retraction. If the correction is made, then there is no right to file a lawsuit. Governmental bodies are supposedly immune to actions for libel on the basis that there could be no intent by a non-personal entity, and further, public records are exempt from claims of libel. However, there is at least one known case in which there was a financial settlement as well as a published correction when a state government newsletter incorrectly stated that a dentist had been disciplined for illegal conduct. The rules covering libel against a "public figure" (particularly a political or governmental person) are special, based on U.S. Supreme Court decisions. The key is that to uphold the right to express opinions or fair comment on public figures, the libel must be malicious to constitute grounds for a lawsuit for damages. Minor errors in reporting are not libel, such as saying Mrs. Jones was 55 when she was only 48, or getting an address or title incorrect. 2) v. to broadcast or publish a written defamatory statement.

Now lets see here... in order for it to be libel, one factor must be that it was a lie. So what was it msgtpain said? Ah yes!

In one of his posts he stated:

Quote:The point is, he registered the .net version of my .com site, then pointed the majority of his links to MY site for the downloads.

And in the other one:

Quote:Thanks for removing the links and hosting them yourself...

Now.. does this seem like a lie? Lets see what you said!

Quote:Yes I am hosting all the maps you blind idiot. All the map packs are hosted on my site not your dofus. The individual map links are to your site and cncden, I'll remove them to shut you up.

Hmm, not much of a lie if you ADMIT you had (as msgtpain stated) pointed the majority of the link (Quote: The individual map links are to your site and cncden,) to his site! Well done! Accusing someone of libel based on a truthful fact!

As for the commerce:

I could find no specific commerce definition that stated what we are discussing, but I'll place the one I found, and the subsequent definition it lead me to.

Quote:interstate commerce

n. commercial trade, business, movement of goods or money, or transportation from one state to another, regulated by the federal government according to powers spelled out in Article I of the Constitution. The federal government can also regulate commerce within a state when it may impact interstate movement of goods and services and may strike down state actions which are barriers to such movement under Chief Justice John Marshall's decision in Gibbons v. Ogden (1824). Theoretically commerce is regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission (I.C.C.) under authority granted by the Interstate Commerce Act, first enacted by Congress in 1887. This authority has been diffused among various federal agencies, and the I.C.C. may soon be history.

Quote:trade

1) n. a business or occupation for profit, particularly in retail or wholesale sales or requiring special mechanical skill. 2) v. to exchange one thing for another, which includes money for goods, goods for goods and favors for goods or money.

So... if commerce is a type of trade, and trade covers what we've been discussing, I must conclude that Renmaps.com (which provides favors for goods [provides a service - NOT the legal definition]) must be a type of trade! And just for good measure, the legal definition of sale:

Quote:sale

n. transfer of something (and title to it) in return for money (or other thing of value) on terms agreed upon between buyer and seller. The price paid may be based on a posted cost, established by negotiation between seller and buyer, or by auction with potential buyers bidding until the highest bid is accepted by the seller or his agent (auctioneer).

And you STILL don't get it... I HAVE SAID MANY TIMES NOW THAT YOU CAN USE THE RENMAPS DOMAIN NAME! This is the FIFTH (thats 5th) time I've mentioned this. And your the one talking about reading posts :rolleyes:

Oh wait.. you mentioned reading posts! What was it you said?

Quote:Why don't you read my post for a chance? I said they sued over <http://www.lsulaw.com>, they also tried to sue over <http://www.lsusucks.com> (both owned by same person). Doug won <http://www.lsulaw.com>,

This sounds surprizingly different than what you said before...

Quote:As for the LSU case, LSU dropped it. they are now arguing over <http://www.lsusucks.com>, this used to point to <http://www.lsulaw.com> but dougyboy (nick name) decided to remove that.

Correct me if I'm wrong, but the last time I checked, a lawsuit, if dropped could be reopened at a later date if needed as no ruling has been made. However, a lost lawsuit could NOT be reopened again. Appeals yes, but the person can't be charged with the same "crime" at a later date as a riuling HAS been made.

Alkaline3, I registerd renmaps.cjb.net 11 months ago, this was back when even before renbattle was on gamespy. I use to run a Tibevo 12 server way back in the day, and when ack released country meadows I created a quick site so that people could dl the map. There was no <http://www.renmaps.com> then... Then the bullshit with renbattle started and I said fuck it, drop this new map nonsense.

Domain Name: RENMAPS.COM

Created on.....: Wed, Feb 12, 2003

Quote:Renmaps its self is not some creative name, anyone thinking of creating a site where people can download maps for renegade would have thought of it, its short and to the point, so mgstpain, you aren't no fucking creative mastermid. If I wanted to copy someone, it would not have been renmaps.com , it would have been renwars, or renbattle, because they are the ones that actually have people playing new maps on there servers.

I could have had access to <http://www.renegademaps.com>, how creative is that? you put the name of the game, and maps to it , and volla your a genius.

I dont know anyone else who has the bandwidth, experiance or basically can be bothered to host everything that the community throws out, without queing, gamespy.

If you wanna be different, come buy <http://www.cncdownloads.com> <-- Creative

Alkaline warranto,

1. You don't know what libel's meaning is, profanity/derogatory comments are not considered libel. However, alteration of facts does. Being this dumbass you are your probably going to tell me that call you a n00b alter the fact that you aren't. Obviously your dumbass for even thinking that.

AD HOMINEM.

DO YOU SPEAK IT?

warranto,

Why the hell do you keep saying renmaps.net domain? I know that you dipshit, you keep pointing it out as if I disagree with you.

Once again,

Quote:So... if commerce is a type of trade, and trade covers what we've been discussing, I must concude that Renmaps.com (which provides favors for goods [provides a service - NOT the legal definition]) must be a type of trade! And just for good measure, the legal definition of sale:

WRONG! Trade in its legal sense involves exchange of legal Tender, this is not considered legal tender by the visitors part, because:

1. All trade must have a deed & contract & consent of the buyer/seller. Now you may be wondering wtf "a contract?" Yes, every time you buy something from the store, In legal sense you entered into a contract, you paid someone and in return got something with the presense of both parties, or at least representatives of both parties.

Free services, donations, charities e.t.c do not fall into trade. THAT IS THE LAW, there is a clear and understood distinction made in the U.S. code. You can't make your own bullshit theories to change that I keep fucking telling you this, but you being the fucktard that you are you keep trying to bend shit around to make it sound like you can do this... uhg...

Your conclusion is a testament to dellusion anyway, I'm gonna end this.

New server name will be <http://www.unrules.com> however, <http://www.renmaps.net> will redirect to it also.

if you have still have a problem, you can go screw yourselves.

Regardless of what you say Dogg, you will always be a fucking idiot. You came to our forms and started the bullshit. Using words you don't even know wtf they mean. I still remember "Renbattle is copyrighted remove it now" haha... Need I say more? B.t.w. in case you didn't notice, 90% of the IDIOTS in here didn't even know what a copyright is. Ohh and YOu said you paid 400/month for your server, I guess that was all bullshit because you just said somone else was actually running it :rolleyes:

Renbattle sucked, renbattle lagged, renbattle had a whooping 60+ crappy ass maps :rolleyes:. At least <http://www.renwarz.com> is ok, they still have some shitty maps but are willing to listen to people.

Everyone but your dumbass knows Smoking Fury owns Renbattle (oh yeah, his name was even on the main page to the website)...don't blame others on your pure stupidity...I wasn't even one of the top mods...i was a lowly addon after Fury, Thor, 1ijac and Brian...but again, your own stupidity blinds you from that fact that everyone knows...don't bring us to your level...

O and guess what ass...I am a mod at Renwarz too (thanks for playing, supporting, AND PLUGGING another server I help mod for)...you are no better off since Serenity and Road and the others and myself all are still around and we all know what an idiot you are and we agree on everything...do be pissed because no one will ever give you the respect we all have from the players on the servers we are on...just piss off because no one will ever ask what happened to you...loud mouth morons are never missed except when we need someone to heckle...and thank you for bringing your name back into the mix, we do miss a good n00b to ridicule...

Yes I am hosting all the maps you blind idiot. All the map packs are hosted on my site not your dofus. The individual map links are to your site and cncden, I'll remove them to shut you up.

what, it took you over a week to respond?

The only thing you hosted yourself was the map pack. For the individual maps you redirected everyone to his site. He held the files on his site, where you told people to go download them.

puft? man wtf are you smoking? cow crap? "exactly" wtf exactly? You trying to be funny or something?

You said hosting, I said he wasn't hosting jackshit.
Then you respond exactly. wtf?

Man you need get your head striaght :rolleyes:

msgtpain did not host anything for me.

I hosted my own map packs which are the ones people downloaded.

I had some links to renmaps.com, that does not mean he was hosting stuff for me. If you are too stupid to understand this then you should not be allowed near a computer.

Posting a link to a site does not mean hosting, if anything msgtpain was getting traffic from me, not hurting him in the slightest.

And I'll refer back to the fact taht people download the map packs not individual maps. What you think when a search engie brings up results from a query you think the links are content that other sites are hosting for the search engine? :rolleyes: man please.... I would have thought you would have stoped your silliness after you crazy dictionary interpretation, but now your really crossing the line of insanity...

hmm.. never knew your site was a search engine...

Regardless though lets look at this:

Did you host the individual maps yourself? As you have admitted, no.

So who hosted the maps? According to you, some magical place out in la-la land where you and only you have access to, perhaps own yourself since no one hosted those maps for you.

Since that last statement is highly unlikely, who's site contained the maps? Msgtpains site.

Where did your links direct people to download them? Msgtpains.

As for the exacly, I was agreeing with you. You directed people to his site, so they could download the map there, as you did not have the individual maps on your site. But of course the fact that I wrote that in my last post doesn't mean you had to actually read it before you posted, right?

And of course, you go off and suggest that someone hosting something for you is actually a bad thing. :rolleyes:

You've supposedly went thourgh law school, so answer me this.

What does each of the following statements imply?

"Here's a map that I'm playing on my server, go here to download it!"

"Here's another place that hosts maps, check it out!"
