A round of fixes for the model and texture have been applied.

Darkblade upgraded the previous version, adding more detail that was from The Aftermath and its corresponding videos, along with Retaliation.

I went ahead and optimized the model a bit more than Sir Phoenixx did, poly-connecting the cab and the back area together properly, while aligning the texture a bit better on the model.

Based off the tank and its destroyed counterpart:

Well this looks much less like a box than the original model. Nice work.

Visually, it's exactly the same as the original tesla tank model except that the cab was brought forward slightly.

The wheels need more black around them. Compare it to the picture.

It's because the texture is mirrored.

No, it's because they were facing the wrong direction. You don't have the UV map, so how are you going to tell anyone about it?

Yes, but the outcome is that they become mirrored (see 3rd picture in your first post).

Only two sides are mirrored, and they aren't top and bottom.
